Title: Lords Of Sin / Anthems

Artist: WITCHFYNDE

Hörprobe: <http://bit.ly/35GP0NZ>

Witchfynde are among the most traditional bands of the New Wave Of British Heavy Metal. Fans consider them to be exceptionally iconic. They are characterized by an occult image, which only partially matches to typical British hard rock and heavy metal. The band's first recordings date from 1975 and have only recently been made available. The four albums from the eighties and the included singles being considered as a blueprint for NWOBHM, are better known. „Lords Of Sin“ from 1984 was the last LP before the band's reunion and at the same time their debut at Mausoleum Records. The music itself had changed only slightly compared to the previous albums. On the other hand, a much higher importance was attached to the production.

Unfortunately, so far all re-releases on CD were not properly processed, sounded sometimes shrill and were offered against overcharged prices.

These problems have now been solved! The „35th Anniversary Edition“ is based on a new vinyl transfer from a blank LP that was remastered by Neudi in a following step.

For the first time, you can talk about listening pleasure on CD in relation to Witchfynde.

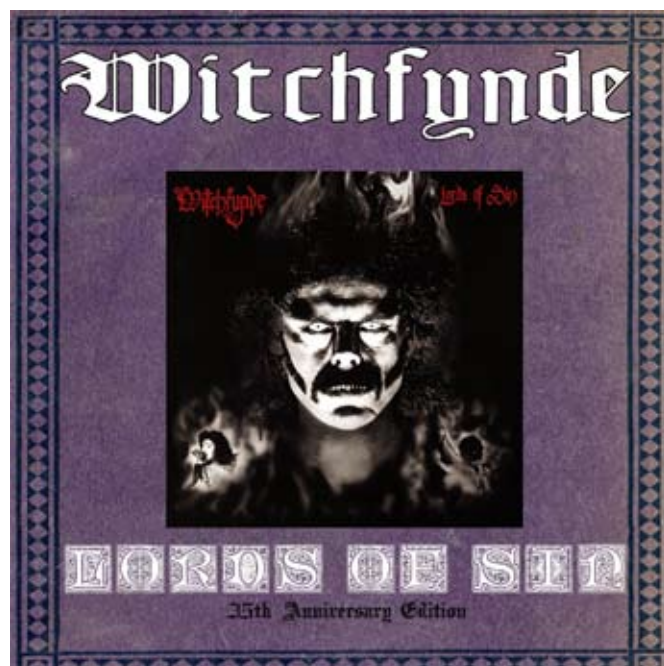

In addition to the epic title song, the enormous rocker „Stab In The Back“ is an ultimate highlight! The track is still part of the band's program.

„Lords Of Sin“ was released as a double LP, since the album included four live recordings (1984) as a bonus. This additional vinyl was called „Anthems“ and can also be found in a remastered version on this CD. Just as usual with re-releases by Golden Core, additionally you will find liner notes and all images related to the original LP.

Currently we are discussing with the band about the release of two or three recently recorded live songs (Metal Assault Festival). At the moment of printing, it was not yet clear whether they would make it onto this CD.

Title: The Art Of Intimacy, Vol.1Artist: JEREMY PELT

Jeremy Pelt's unquenchable curiosity has made him one of the most multi-faceted of jazz artists. Whether it be as a leader, a sideman, an accompanist or a composer, Pelt has investigated nearly every aspect and genre in jazz – from electric to eclectic, Be-Bop to Free-Bop. Here Pelt joins forces with the legendary George Cables on piano and Peter Washington laying down the bass lines. All but one tune on the setlist are slow-ish numbers but this is not your father's ballad record. Each member of the trio is able to pour some old wine into new bottles, aware of and perhaps shaped by the past but operating very much in the moment. Together with Cables' lush voicings and solid tone and Washinton's always-inspired bass lines and solos, Pelt's new recording sets a high bar for all trio recordings that follow in the remainder of 2020.

Title: Project-K
Artist: JIM SNIDERO

With Project-K, Jim Snidero breaks new ground. Absorbing and refracting varied aspects of Korean folkways, he delves into a topic near and dear to his home and heart. "Having a Korean wife, family and friends, I've been immersed in Korean culture for more than 20 years," he shares. "Between Korean history, culture and philosophy, I felt that there was much to explore musically." Bridging his own wide-ranging aesthetic with those very traditions, Snidero turns out one of the most distinctive dates of his career. In choosing the personnel to flesh out this music, Snidero's decisions proved shrewd and sound. The rhythm section, comprised of pianist Orrin Evans, bassist Linda May Han Oh and drummer Rudy Royston, brings a rare balance of sensitivity, strength and insight to these ventures. And trumpeter Dave Douglas serves as the perfect front line foil for the saxophonist. "I wanted to use a traditional Korean instrument on Project-K and the gayageum appealed to me the most. My goal was to fully integrate the instrument within some of the arrangements," says Snidero, "and Do Yeon Kim was the natural choice. As a group, we were all able to create what I believe is both unique and inspired music."
